<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ally Blackboard Tool Ingrid Steiner, Stacey Hearn, Jason Dove 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • New Tool at USC – Universal design for learning assists in making course materials more accessible to learners (disability accommodations, other access issues) • Driven by social justice model – adapt environment to people, not force people to adapt to environment • Addresses Usability and Access – Examples: Cognitive, Visual, Auditory, Motor, Speech challenges (at USC 10-15% of students disclose these each year) • Benefits often accrue more broadly – ‘curb cut effect’ (not just mobility challenged, also bikes, strollers, skateboards, etc.) • Tool Details: Three Pieces: Indicates materials’ level of accessibility (gauges), automatically suggests alternative course material formats (some fixes require manual action); gives overall accessibility report. Only the faculty can see full reports; staff only sees aggregate reports • [Q: I got a red gauge on my syllabus. How to fix a syllabus? A: 1) We (e.g., SOP) can update the syllabi format systematically. 2) There are expert resources to fix specific issues.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • AACP Survey Results Maryann Wu 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • No national peer comparison results yet. USC results available. • Annual (graduating students/faculty), q3 years (alumni/preceptors) • Students: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Demographics mostly stable; fewer going to chain pharmacy, more to independent; fewer to hospitals; more to industry. • Employment: Mostly California, some NW, NE, Texas • Many (>40%) do residency, fellowship (9%), other degree • Faculty& Student Replies: Lots of Data – Online (Tableau), Available for Self-Study use, Organized by Standard <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Many areas were improving: e.g., Staff, Faculty, Facilities • Many areas better than peers: e.g., Dean

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Many areas meeting goal (>80% Agree), others need more work – see posted Excel spreadsheet or Tableau
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ACPE Accreditation Update K. Franson 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Mini-retreat October 4th Other work has been moving forward. Deadline: September 16 for self-study reports! Awaiting peer schools results, but things at USC feel better than national Schools of Pharmacy mood.
